Domestic taxation

Income tax, corporate tax, inheritance tax, gift tax, and consumption tax

As a taxation and accounting firm specializing in finance, we offer high-value added and finely tuned services tailored to our clients' needs.

As economic transactions have become increasingly diverse and international in recent years, the tax problems that we face are also becoming more complex and advanced every year. In particular, recent amendments to tax systems have resulted in the mechanisms of these systems and related laws and regulations becoming difficult to understand, and requiring working with large amounts of data. Accordingly, more advanced technology and knowledge have become necessary for various procedures related to tax, including filing tax returns.

Meanwhile, taxpaying corporations and individuals must have a greater awareness than ever before of the proper tax procedures and compliance with laws and regulations, amidst developments such as the emerging trend among taxation authorities to require corporate governance related to corporate taxation from companies, and stronger monitoring and investigations into recent excessive tax evasion measures by individuals, particularly wealthy individuals. As the environment surrounding taxation becomes more unforgiving in this way, support for appropriate tax management from experts in taxation with advanced knowledge is likely to become increasingly important.

At Tokyo Kyodo Accounting Office, we provide continuous support to optimize taxation for each client, while also maintaining and enhancing tax compliance, to support sound corporate economic activities and growth, and ensure property is appropriately maintained and managed, including business transfers for individuals.

We select dedicated certified public tax accountants and certified public accountants with deep knowledge of each sector for each client. Through these professionals, we provide high-value added and finely tuned services tailored to the needs of our clients, as a trusted partner for senior corporate management, accounting and financial professionals, and asset owners.
